

'Fortnite' Reaches New Level Of Video Game Popularity — And Addiction

December 18, 2018

If you're having trouble getting your kid to the dinner table because they're playing 'Fortnite,' you're not alone. Over 200 million gamers have registered for the video game worldwide.

And it's not just kids — parents, Major League Baseball players, even the popular rapper Drake have all caught on. It's fun and popular, but some say also addictive.

Here's how to start evaluating and curbing that addiction.
