

Health benefits of falling and staying in love

February 07, 2011

The Washington Post:

Love may make the world go 'round, but is it powerful enough to lower one's blood pressure, reduce depression and speed the healing of an injury? With Valentine's Day just around the corner, we set out to find the answer and discovered that science says yes.

Read the whole story: The Washington Post