

Oldies but goodies

February 15, 2017

The Boston Globe:

WE OFTEN ASSUME that people don't want to hear the same old story. But psychologists at Harvard and the University of Virginia wondered if people "worry too much about boring their listeners and not enough about confusing them, and that they therefore tell novel stories to listeners who would have enjoyed hearing familiar stories a great deal more."

Read the whole story: The Boston Globe