

Pump Up The Bass, Feel Like A Boss

August 18, 2014

NPR:

Jump-up songs make us feel capable and powerful. Athletes know that intuitively — batters swagger out to raucous walk-up songs, stars like Serena Williams and LeBron James warm up with headphones on (except when, in James's case, the headphones come off to blast Wu-Tang Clan in the locker room).

But what is it about a good pump-up song that makes us feel invincible? According to a new study, the answer is in the bass.

Read the whole story: NPR