

Why do drivers hate cyclists?

November 03, 2015

CBC:

On last week's program, we had a conversation about a proposal to license cyclists in Vancouver. That unleashed a torrent of feedback – more than we've ever had on a single item, and much of it hostile to cyclists.

This week, we asked psychologist Ian Walker why drivers get so angry about cyclists. Walker studies traffic and transportation psychology in the United Kingdom.

Read the whole story: CBC