

Sam Glucksberg, Speaking Figuratively

November 27, 2001

My job is a jail. Who hasn't thought that, or something like it, at one time or another (APS employees being the clear exception, of course-we love our jobs). But this expression isn't intended to actually invoke the image of someone chained to a desk behind bars. The figurative intent is immediately obvious.

Observer photo by Julie Katz