

European Psychology Learning and Teaching Conference

January 30, 2017

The School of Education of the Paris Lodron University of Salzburg is hosting the next European Psychology Learning and Teaching (EUROPLAT) Conference on September 18–20, 2017 in Salzburg, Austria. The main theme of the conference will be “Evidence-based Improvement for Learning and Teaching Psychology.” The call for paper submissions is now open and they invite empirical research as well as innovative or best practice approaches to the psychology of learning and teaching in all educational areas and at all levels.

Submissions for the conference should contribute to a culture of scholarship in relation to learning and teaching psychology and related areas. The call for papers includes submission for individual paper/poster presentations, symposia, and doctoral presentations.

The submission deadline is April 21, 2017. For further details, please visit the 2017 EUROPLAT website.