

Festschrift in Honor of Elliot Aronson

August 31, 2008

Friends and colleagues of Elliot Aronson celebrated his dedication to psychology at a banquet and a day long Festschrift in his honor.

Sunday, May 25, 2008

Opening Remarks and Welcome

Taking the Leap of Faith With the 'Aronsonian' Tradition of Applied Experimental Social Psychology
Jeff Stone

From Consistency About Self to Consistency for Others: Traveling the Road to Vicarious Dissonance
Joel Cooper

The Jigsaw Classroom and Beyond: Improving Intergroup Relations When Contacting Groups Have Unequal Status
Anthony G. Greenwald

The Jigsaw Path From Lewin to Aronson: The Potential of Experiential Education in Creating Relevant, Challenging, and Powerful Learning Where Theory Emerges From Practice
Charles Seashore

Social Psychology's Golden Age: Can We Go Back to the Future?
John Darley

Social Psychology and the Nature and Nurture of Human Intelligence
Joshua Aronson

The Storyteller's Art in the Science of Psychology
Carol Tavis

Without a Net: Aronsonian Artistry as a 'Best Practice' in Undergraduate Teaching and Graduate Training
Marti Hope Gonzales and Closing Remarks by Elliot Aronson