

Psychopathic Traits Predict Preferred Social Distance in Healthy Individuals

June 10, 2013

Joana Vieira, a 2013 APS Student Research Award recipient from the University of Porto, Portugal, presented her work on “Psychopathic Traits Predict Preferred Social Distance in Healthy Individuals” at the 25th APS Annual Convention in Washington, DC.