

The Influence of Dental Anxiety on Oral Hygiene Practices

June 01, 2013

The present study explored the effects of dental anxiety on frequency of brushing and flossing. Results indicate that dental anxiety is associated with frequency of flossing but not brushing. Dental professionals may consider implementing anxiety reducing techniques and further emphasize to patients the value of flossing on a daily basis.

Michael A. DeDonno

Barry University